Dedication

With gratitude and appreciation, we, the Annual Staff of 1962, dedicate this yearbook to our Assistant Principal, Mr. Stephen J. Vargo. We are honoring a man who has helped not only our class, but the whole school and every student in it, with his ready smile, keen sense of humor and ever-present desire to educate.

Word From the Editor

We, the class of 1962, are about to pass through the doorway of life into a quickly moving, highly automated world. Behind us are the carefree times of childhood and adolescence; ahead lie the responsibilities of adult American citizens.

These have been years of trials and tribulations. We have felt the thrills of being in a new school and shared the disappointments of a defeated school levy; both these experiences have been valuable parts of our education. Our scholastic accomplishments have been possible because of a fine teaching staff and excellent facilities. For our outstanding athletic record, we thank our well-trained coaches. As a class, we feel very fortunate to have been able to learn and grow under the leadership and guidance of such capable instructors.

But we are happy to have completed this first step of our development. With confidence gained from the experiences of these formative years, we step into the world, some of us to join the working forces; others, to further our education. To you who remain, as well as to all, we leave this yearbook as a remembrance of the class of 1962.

In Memoriam

Robert Davis was a member of the class of 1962 until his unfortunate death after the Sophomore year. Robert, better known as Bob, was a quiet boy and many of us did not get to know him well. But those who did, join in honoring him as a past member of the class of 1962.

SENIORS '62

Class History

"School days began with tears and sighs,
With seeking what we could not find.
We sought and knew not what we sought,
We marvel, now we look behind."

In September of 1949, the class of 1962 took that first long trip to school as "kindergarten babies." Those at the old school were greeted by Mrs. Elenz, while those at Wallings were met by Mrs. Schaal. The highlight of the year was the mock wedding complete with costumes, ring, ushers, maid of honor, and best man. Every senior looks back on kindergarten with fond memories of fingerpaint fights, block buildings, and rest (?) periods. What a Senior wouldn't have given for a rest period during a government lecture!

We dutifully learned our ABC's and then progressed to first grade. Boy, were we proud. We were in the first grade and could go to school all day. I'm not sure who was the happier though, the new first graders or their mothers. We learned how to add and subtract and how to print our names. We got our first readers in which we learned about Alice and Jerry and their pets, Puff and Spot. We even participated in the air raid drills. We not so quietly marched out in the halls where the boys covered their eyes with their hands to protect their eyes and the girls pulled their skirts over their heads. These drills continued through to the sixth grade and woe be it for any girl to forget to wear a slip. Needless to say, a trip through the hall with all the little DERRIERES in the air was quite a sight.

HIGHLAND DRIVE SCHOOL FIRST GRADE

WALLINGS ROAD SCHOOL

The first grade passed quickly and the second was soon upon us with more adventures of Alice and Jerry. Open house had our parents proudly, well some of them proudly, looking at the stars on the various charts for 100% papers. One child this year met with a small "accident." He was literally smeared with finger paint. The favorite games that year were pom pom at Wallings and streets and alleys at Highland.

Our third grade teachers taught us how to multiply and divide and what we first thought was Chinese - writing. From then on, printing was too below us; we wrote everything. This was the year of Gordon's spectacular leaps on the monkey bars - he missed and broke his arm. Those at Wallings will remember the rulers broken over a few thick skulls.

1953 was the year the girls chased the boys, right, Nancy? Funny isn't it how time has a way of playing tricks, seven years later, these same boys started chasing the girls. (Tables turned, didn't they, Don!) We even had our own theater groups. At Wallings we put on an operetta and a play entitled "Frogprints." At Highland, there was a minuet. Mrs. Weigal, a favorite teacher at Wallings was having a baby so we collected money every day to buy her a gift.

At Wallings, there were square dances every Thursday in the fifth grade. Those who had Mr. Malyeke had mood music each day. Soft FM music to study by and Oboe recitals for entertainment. At Highland, we had safety (?) patrols where some of the officers were replaced because they incited riots. All that went on in the conference room of the library at Highland was not studying either, right, Lars? The fifth grade was one of the first times the whole class got together. We took a combined trip to Severance Hall. We were really characters in the fifth grade, in fact, we were like that through out grade school. Mr. Wisnieski went to break up a fight between two boys and found one turned out to be a girl, Margret Glasgow by name, the terror of the fifth grade.

The sixth grade found us all together at the Junior High School. Miss Pickerings started her Art Club. Everyone joined in for the milk races. A certain teacher found that the yard stick she hit Jack Hruby with broke in two. And boy, there were some pretty embarrassing moments during the health classes. For our Christmas program that year, we got a big tree - two weeks early. By the time Christmas came, all the needles had fallen off. The "Cootie" game we started in the fourth grade followed us through to the sixth. We even had a "Cootie" Machine to disinfect any new students.

We found seventh grade so exciting. We had new teachers and subjects, and we changed classes. "Learn-to-dance" taught us the basic dance steps and gave us something to do on weekends. Oh, the agony of having to dance with a teacher! No one ever really mastered the art of dancing, but one good thing came of it, we got little gifts at the end of the class, nail files and clippers.

Those who had Mr. Turk remember his favorite punishment. Standing with one's nose against the door. This worked fine until the culprits started making faces and had the whole class in an uproar. The girls got their hair cut short because a certain teacher came around the room pulling long hair. Washing Mr. Kegley's car was his favorite punishment.

Then came the eighth grade, just one year away from Senior High. The guys got their first taste of football under Mr. Mercer and Mr. Miller. Mr. Kegley and his uniform inspections in the boys' gym were a well discussed topic. And Mr. Phillips joined our class as a home room teacher. The poor man is still with us, in spite of the fact we sort of rearranged his car.

This was the year we got the brand of being a bad class, mostly because of Mr. Turk. Can't say we were little angels that year. We really went in for the fads. If some people think short skirts are bad now, they should have seen us in the eighth grade with our skirts touching our socks, four socks. If you didn't wear two pairs of socks, you just weren't with it! The boys weren't much better though, with their tight Levis or their black slacks with pink lacing down the sides. Those were our favorite colors, pink and black. The teachers despised the way they made us look like "hoods," which made us like it all the more. The boys wore their hair long and the girls got it cut in a D. A. A pair of neat, polished shoes weren't to be seen; the older and messier they were, the better we liked them. Well, every class goes through a phase at one time or another and the eighth grade was the time for ours.

Finally in the ninth grade, we had a name, not just a grade number. We were the Freshmen! Of course, that wasn't much, we were at the bottom of the ladder, but we could finally join in the senior high activities. Naturally, we were soundly beat each time in G. A. A., but at least we were able to play and that was the main thing. Besides, what was a minor item like G. A. A. when we could cheer for our own Frosh basketball and football teams? We were so enthusiastic, we even revived the freshman cheerleading program which has now been made a permanent part of BHS. We learned about new flying objects, not in the science class as one might think, but in Mrs. Saunders's English Class. One day a roll of bathroom tissue went flying by, almost followed by a member of the class who was in the process of being tossed out the window. Ah, the freshman year! We were able to go to the center--without special notes! Why, we could even eat lunch down there; that is if we could make our way through the upperclassmen. Another item worth remembering, with mixed emotions, was the only bachelor in the school that year, Mr. Bruening, the Latin teacher.

The Sophomore year was upon us. We spent half of the year planning our first real contribution to the school--The Sophomore dance. It was Hawaiian in theme and was complete with leis. The girls finally won a few games in G. A. A., beating the freshmen, of course. We designed our class emblems, a feat never to be equaled, much less surpassed by any underclassmen. This was the year we were introduced to the "Admiral," Mr. Mercer, who greeted us almost daily with the definition of Sophomore as know-it-alls and how we fit the definition perfectly. He became the secret crush of many a Sophomore girl. He tried to be so stern, but we knew that he and Mr. Beck, with his flying erasers, were the class's best friends, along with Mr. Phillips.

Back to school in September with split sessions and only 6 periods. Oh, how we starved from breakfast time at 6:00 to lunch at home at 12:30. The classes were a jumbled mess. It was especially bad for the administration who had to prepare two schedules for each pupil, one for the split sessions, and one ready for the move to the new school. The Junior year brought many responsibilities and privileges. The biggest responsibility was raising the money for the Junior-Senior Prom. This we accomplished by an all out burst of enthusiasm from our class members in the magazine drive. It was added to with the receipts of the junior plan, "It's Spring Again." The junior dance, The Mardi Gras, didn't quite become the success we planned, but those who attended enjoyed themselves. We decided on a class ring and ordered it. When it finally came, we showed it off for weeks and weeks. Boy, were we proud!

OUR KINDERGARTEN WEDDING

With the completion of the new high school in December, we lost all hope of being the first graduating class of our new Alma Mater. There were so many other firsts though. One of them was the distinction of being the first class to put on the prom in the new school. Sixteen hours of decorating and a tremendous class participation, enabled us to transform the gym into an "Enchantment." Crepe-paper ceiling, live goldfish in a fountain, muraled walls, and dancing lights slowly changed the once ordinary gym into such a wonderland that even the Seniors praised us. The one thing that broke our hearts was getting up at dawn the morning after a wonderful after-prom, sponsored by our parents, and taking it down. What took us two days to put up took little more than an hour to take down.

Yes, the new building brought many firsts, like eating lunch with no tables, having study halls lying on the floor, and almost knocking ourselves out by running into the unaccustomed glass walls. We survived to attend the senior's Baccalaureate and Commencement as ushers, choral members, or just on-lookers. It was then that it really "hit us." After this year, we'd have no more high school to look forward to in September, and our class, like every other one in the past, would split up and its members would go their merry way.

The years we thought passed so slowly, now seem to have actually gone by like lightning. When we started school again in September we found out why the seniors in the past were always studying government every spare moment they had. We were introduced to Mr. Nicoletti, who let us know the senior year wasn't going to be easy by giving us a quiz the second day of school. We were the mighty seniors! There was no one we could, or had to, for that matter, look up to. It was up to us to show the underclassmen what four years at Brecksville High did to mature one.

The Senior year wasn't all work and no play. The girls started a new fad by putting on a skit at the pep rallies. This was followed by one by the Senior guys and then one by the coaches. We were faced with firsts again. We started a new institution, honor study halls. These were started on a trial basis for the year. The students ran them themselves by electing presidents and monitors and thus giving the teachers a free period. In honor of our foreign exchange student, Dukey Yano from Japan, we presented "Teahouse of the August Moon" as our fall play. As a result of the play, Brecksville became a member of Thespians, an honorary dramatic organization.

Our year of sports was a good one. Our football team wasn't the best we've had, but they were our guys and they could do no wrong. Then came the defeat of the school levy and the sudden dread that there would be no sports for the rest of the year. What a way to have your last year in high school end! We were lucky though; some one up there liked us. We were able to keep basketball and wrestling, but the spring and summer sports were to go. No tennis, no track, and no arena meet. The levy was passed the second time; baseball was reinstated. Our basketball team, composed mainly of Seniors, matched the school's best record; 19 wins, and 2 losses. They were well on their way to the State tournament when defeated in the District by East Tech. We did walk off with the West County championship and the Bedford tournaments though. Our Wrestling team did well, taking a first place at Hiram and a second in the district.

During Christmas, we placed Christmas trees in different home rooms--crooked ones. We even had home room parties, one a birthday party for Mr. Phillips, our advisor, who had been with us since the eighth grade. The prom, Terrace, was put on for us by the juniors. The scene depicted a Southern Plantation, complete with servants. The after-prom sent us half way to Strongsville searching for the Yorktown show, after which we went to the Greenbriar.

The Senior class finished their activities with a production of Lerner and Lowe's "Paint Your Wagon," a Broadway production. It was a big success and gave the class a chance to show off its talent.

Then, on the twelfth of June, 1962, the members of the class of '62 marched down the aisle to the strains of the traditional POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE. We entered as students and after receiving our diplomas, culmination of twelve years of work, we left as Alumni. We were adults, entering business, college, and for some even marriage. The twelfth of June was actually the last time the class would ever be together with everyone present. Reunions would come and go and most of the people would be there, but we ceased being a class from that day on and began being individuals.

Recorded in this yearbook, are many of the efforts of more than 175 people - students and faculty in making for themselves and others a better world. The history you have read is only a foundation for the years ahead. Because we attended Brecksville, it should prove to be a firm foundation on which we can build a happy, useful, and rich life. With this salute to Brecksville and its faculty for its patience and understanding, the class of 1962 leaves, hoping the school is just a little bit better for our having been here.

Dukey Yano

Since I have left Japan, almost a year has passed away. I cannot but notice again the proverb which says, "Time and tide wait for no man." I was very glad to have found out the fact that to be away from home and to stay in a country one has never seen before makes one think greatly. The biggest thing among what I have realized here is that no matter what nationality one is, the purpose of life is all the same. And through education we should develop our thinking power.

The purpose of education is to help people think of the meaning of life. I am sure that most people know this but they put more emphasis on the lesser purposes. Education today does a fairly adequate job of preparing people to get along at various types of jobs. But it has failed to do one very essential thing, that is to impart to the students a spirit of creative thinking. This should be the chief purpose of education.

DUKEY'S

FAMILY

If education overlooks this essential purpose, people can easily go through life never asking about its meaning. If they never question life's meaning, they can never fully appreciate it. They are only able to enjoy the very superficial aspects of life; they are never able to make sound conclusions based on evidence; they are truly detrimental to mankind.

If, on the other hand, education enables people to think, they will realize that everyone's purpose in life is like their own. And they will act in a manner to improve the whole of mankind rather than only a small community like the United States of America. This, I believe, is the best way to keep the world without war.

Class Will

Dedication

COACH SUSTERSIC

This year, the Sports Section is dedicated to our Coaches and to Mr,. Sustersic, our Athletic Director.

Under the leadership of these men, we were County Champs in Cross Country and Basketball. We also did well in Football and Wrestling.

As one boy put it: "It was hard to go wrong with these men behind us."

CLUBS

Annual Staff

This is the group that worked all year to complete this book. Thanks to the Juniors for their help. Our Editor-in-Chief was Carolyn Baxter. Advisor, Mr. Shelton.

Art Club

President, Dennis Gaughn; Vice-President, Linda Beckett; Secretary, Roland Born; Treasurer, Fred Mazzeo; Advisor, Mrs. Wagner. This group is responsible for all the attractive art exhibits in the halls.

Boosters

OFFICERS:
Pres. - JERI RICHWALD
Secy. - KATHY MLOD
Treas. - SANDY McFARLAN
Advisor - MRS. JACKSON

Camera Club

President, Martin R. Bender; Vice-President, Bob VeVerda; Secretary, Susie Haberland; Treasurer, Adrianne Volenik; Advisor, Mr. Meyers. This club was for all the students that were interested in photography and the darkroom.

Stage Crew

In charge of electrical wiring, Keith Monti; of construction, Jack Hruby; Advisor, Mr. Becker. They put up the best, maybe not the sturdiest, but the best scenery we have ever had.

Social Studies Club

President, Marilyn McNabb; Vice-President, Mr. Prokopius; Secretary, Dennis Kruszynski; Treasurer, Lee Baxter; Advisors, Mr. Nicoletti and Mr. Hribar. These people find the problems of the world more important than their own.

Science Club

President, Dave Pfleger; Vice-President, Terry Kearns; Secretary, Jeff Gaynor; Advisor, Mr. Pastor. This club not only has refreshments at every meeting, but they make them as well. (Is it Maxwell House, fellas?)

Student Council

President, Jean Ulrich; Vice-President, Tim Kramer; Secretary, Brenda Fraley; Treasurer, Roger Young; Advisor, Mr. Nau. This organization is our student government. It not only rules the student body, but it works as a liaison between the students and the administration and faculty. Its biggest project is earning money for the Foreign Exchange Program.

Principal's Advisory Committee

Chairman, Mr. Wisneiski; Secretary, Bonnie Garlick. This group discussed pressing school problems, such as the length of skirts, amount of eye make-up allowed, the number of shelves in the girl's washroom, how to induce sturdy young men to plant trees in the school yard, and the excess amount of lights at dances. Each problem is solved in the best interest of the School.

Y-Teens

President, Brenda Fraley; Vice-President, Corol Jerme; Secretary, Connie Kroen; Treasurer, Nancy Scott; Advisor, Mr. Young. This is a world-wide organization sponsored by the Y.W.C.A.; it offers these girls many opportunities of friendship with girls in other parts of the city as well as the world.

Key Club

President, Jon Hartman; Vice-President, Herbie Bonacker; Secretary, Tom Volenik; Treasurer, Lars Larsen; Advisor, Mr. Weakland. This organization is affiliated with the local Kiwanis Club and a great service to our school and the community. Remember the big Pancake Breakfast they put on to help raise money for the Debate Team?

National Honor Society

President, Mary Jo Orehovec; Vice-President, Jon Hartman; Secretary, Marilyn McNabb; Treasurer, Carolyn Baxter; Advisor, Mrs. Kalina. To be elected to the National Honor Society, a student must have at least a "B" average and be rated as outstanding in character, leadership, and service by the faculty.

Library Club

President, Karen Kornuta; Vice-President, Janette Duff; Secretary, Lorraine Lisey; Treasurer, Marilyn Zust; Advisor, Mrs. Sabodosh. Students in this club learn about books and the library by assisting the librarian.

P.A. Announcers

These are the people behind the cheery voices you heard every morning, telling you the date, warning the Seniors if "Pierre Rat" was up, and keeping you up on club happenings.

Hall Guards

These students devoted one of their study halls to guard our halls from any dubious characters that might be wandering around; then they had to put on their hiking shoes and go around to all the rooms and collect the attendance slips. The Chief Enforcers were Mr. Vargo and Mr. Nau.

French Club

Pres. - SUE CLARKE
Vice-Pres. - ANITA CARTER
Secy. - SUZANNE YANKO

Latin Club

Consuls, Don Evert, and Lee Keenen; Secretary, Judy Faulhaber; Treasurer, Mary Anne Ziska; Advisor, Mr. Meyers.

Spanish Club

Pres. - JANET DOUBLER
Vice-Pres. - RAY SINDELAR
Secy. - BARB GRAVATT
Treas. - JIM LEVENTRY
Advisor - MRS. PEOPLES

This was the first year for the Spanish and French Clubs. Charters had to be drawn up, by-laws to be made - it was a busy year. Remember International Day when all three clubs got together to better inform the student body about the language they represented? Latin Club, in their togas, put on the skit about the President's Speech; Spanish Club had Spanish speakers, singers, dancers, and bullfight movies. The French Club put on the humorous play "Picotin" about a stupid servant, George Dorko.

Through hard work and hours of enjoyment, the members of these clubs learn to understand a language, a country, the members of the country; in so doing, they make our big world a little smaller.

Future Nurses Club

President, Sue White; Vice-President, Sandy Cooke; Secretary, Gail Strachota; Treasurer, Barbara Waltz; Advisor, Mrs. Leventry.

Future Teachers of America

President, Carol Majoros; Vice-President, Sylvia Temple; Secretary, Joyce Beears.

Speech and Debate Club

President, James Tepper; Vice-President, Charlie Santose; Secretaries, Mary Jo Orehovec and Carolee Wysocki; Treasurer, Sue Dlugo; Advisors, Mr. Sinzinger and Miss Miller.

L. to R.: Janet Smith, Ken Kisiel, Dorothy Koster and Dave Pfleger.

The Debate Team went ahead with full steam this year and won the state tournament at Ohio State University. They were undefeated for eight rounds of debate. They will be going on to the national tournament in Missoula, Montana, this summer. We all wish them the best of luck.

Also representing Ohio at the national tournaments in Montana will be Dave Gibbs. Dave won the outstanding speaker award at both Student Congresses. The National Student Congress will decide on bills accepted by the National Office. Dave submitted a bill "To Ban Boxing" and it was the third accepted. This will insure Brecksville's representation at the National Tournament.

The Dramatics Club was hindered by the Bond Issue failure; therefore, it was only able to put on one big production . . . but what a production! Remember "Teahouse of the August Moon"? And Jack Hruby received the "Outstanding Actor" Award.

Orchestra

President, Larry Dailey; Vice-President, Wynn Pfahl; Secretary, Janice Nace; Treasurer, Russ Tonkin; Director, Dr. John H. Tucker.

Never before has the Orchestra had a schedule like theirs. They performed at the: November meeting of the P.T.A., Christmas Assembly, Concert at Veterans Hospital, Music Festival, Concert with P.T.A. Mother Singers, and Senior Class Night. Phew!

Advanced Chorus

President, Lee Watkins; Vice-President, Janet Doubler; Secretary, Pat Clark; Treasurer, Gary Deyling; Director, Dr. Tucker.

This group of select voices performed for the Veterans Hospital (with the Orchestra), for the Women's Fellowship of Brooklyn Heights Congregation, and other places. Don't think any of the group will forget that "Woodchuck Song!"

Rehearsal Hours Mount For Giant Junior Play

Rehearsal hours are mounting as the deadline of the Junior Play draws nearer. Many people, as well as the cast, have many more hours of labor before the audience's viewing on November 17 and 18.

Mr. Eugene Weakland, Junior class adviser for this event, states in a recent interview, "Everything is on a greater and bigger scale than ever before. Therefore, everyone will have to work harder than ever before."

Committees that are necessary for the play are directed by the business manager, Carolee Wysocki. These committees are: Props, Kathie Krieger and Thomas Morisson; Make-up, Pat DeFranco; Costumes, Dawn Sautters and Carol Papp; Tickets, Steve Pavelka; Art, Dennis Gaughn and the Art Club; Publicity, Sue Clarke; P. A. Announcements, Dorothy Koster; and Programs, Dave Pfleger.

Tickets will be distributed on and after November 6 and can be bought from any Junior class member for 60 cents for students and $1.00 for adults. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

Seniors Are Commended

Seven seniors of Brecksville High School have received formal "Letters of Commendation" for their high performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test given last March 11.

"Nancy Barts, Carolyn Baxter, George Dorko, Marilyn McNabb, sculpture and

ng, pastel-chalk drawings, three-dimensional wood constructions, and a hall case filled with pottery and clay animals were the art classes' contributions to Open House, Thursday, October 19.

"I just wish Open House could be postponed until January so that we could have more projects to show the parents," says Mrs. Ruth Wagner, art teacher.

Mrs. Wagner's future plans are "firsts" for Brecksville art students. The projects include silk-screen printings on fabric, grass weavings for wall-hangings, and jewelry.

Honor Study Halls Present Day-to-Day Challenge

"A year ago only the most visionary student could conceive of Honor Study Halls being in existence at Brecksville High School. The fact that the student body was able to introduce these Study Halls this year reflects credit on each and every student in this school.

"Now that the initial challenge has been met successfully, we are faced with the even greater challenge of doing these day-to-day routine things that will enable a program of this magnitude to prosper and become an integral part of our school system. Unfortunately, not every student shares your enthusiasm for this program. Therefore, it has been necessary for the student council to set up operating procedures. It is the intent of these procedures that a student can be ejected only if he really wants to be ejected.

"I think it is only fair and also very important to point out to all students that the fact that you have spent six weeks in a teacher-controlled Study Hall does not automatically guarantee your re-admission to an Honor Study Hall. This re-admission will be obtained only if your Study Hall and Classroom teachers feel that you warrant a second chance. Even at this point the student central committee will weigh your case, and they will decide whether or not you should be given re-admission to an Honor Study Hall."

The preceding statement by Mr. Paul Nau, guidance counselor, was issued at the request of the Hy-Breeze staff. Every student is urged to study the articles from the Honor Study Hall Constitution, which is now in a tentative form, and to consider his own responsibility in the matter.

ARTICLE IV
Ejection

A pupil may be ejected from all Honor Study Halls for the following reasons:

1. One cut from study hall.
2. Unruly conduct.
3. Defacing or destruction of property.
4. Two warning notices in one six-weeks.
5. Giving fake or fictitious name to the president when a warning slip is issued.
6. Failure to report for the second Central Committee summons.

Ejection from Honor Study Hall shall result in the following:

1. Denial of the privilege of participating in any inter-scholastic athletic games or in any club activities.
2. Revocation of the student's library pass. To use the library he must obtain a teacher's written permission.

ARTICLE V
Readmittance

In order to be readmitted to Honor Study Halls, a student must fulfill the following requirements:

1. A pupil ejected may apply for readmission at any time. He must wait at least six weeks for readmittance.
2. The applicant for readmittance must sign an application form declaring his intentions.
3. Forms must be endorsed by all present teachers and homeroom teacher.
4. These complete forms should be returned to the Guidance Office Thursday in order to be considered on Friday.
5. Hearings are to be held by the Central Committee on Fridays.

"Teahouse of the August Moon"

Due to the failure of the bond levy, there was only one play open to the public this year. In his first year as dramatics coach at Brecksville, Mr. Richard Sinzinger shattered tradition by opening tryouts for the Junior Play to the whole school. The play, "Teahouse of the August Moon," was a tremendous success and a credit both to Mr. Sinzinger and the school.
